STYLE NOTES

What we love now

EDITED BY TILLY MACALISTER-SMITH

THREE GRACES LONDON dress, £282 (threegraceslondon.com)

POPLIN pyjama bottoms (part of set), £250 (poplin.co.uk)

MORPHO & LUNA nightdress, £230 (morphoandluna.com)

Hanneli Mustaparta at Milan Fashion Week

OLIVIA VON HALLE cotton shirt, £280 (oliviavonhalle.com)

V.I.P LOUNGE

There's something so appealing about a line-dried, crisp cotton shirt that makes you want to never take it off. Just as well then that a host of emerging brands are focusing on that delicious inbetween moment of sleeping and dressing. Founder of Three Graces London, Catherine Johnson says her pieces are 'designed for a 24-hour lifestyle and serene daytime drifting', while you can pad around the house in Morpho & Luna's Italian linen PJs all day long without feeling slovenly.

MARGARET HOWELL lamp, £130 (margarethowell.co.uk)

Lamp BOAST

What is it about September that makes us hanker for childhood comforts like a new pencil case or a duffel coat? Now you can update your deskware with Margaret Howell's collaboration with Anglepoise in yellow, blue or green.

ADD TO BASKET: The 24-hour clutch

James Millar, Liberty London's head of design, has given his spin to this limited-edition pouch: the Iphis print is overlaid with vibrant poppies — a classic art nouveau bloom updated in 21st-century hues. And it even fits your phone, debit card and lipstick.

NOEMI KLEIN £189 (noemiklein.com)

MEADOWLARK £249 (meadowlarkjewellery.co.uk)

ROSIE FORSTESCUE £50 (rosieforstescuejewellery.com)

Modern folklore says stacking your delicate golden rings encourages great wealth and long health. Well, we made that bit up, but they sure are pretty
